

CLIMATE REALITY LEADERSHIP CORPS TRAINING

BERLIN, GERMANY | JUNE 26-28

On June 26-28, 2018, The Climate Reality Project, led by its chairman and founder, former US Vice President Al Gore, will hold the 38th Climate Reality Leadership Corps training in Berlin for citizen activists.

The intensive three-day event provides citizens concerned for the future of our planet with a strong understanding of climate science, as well as the critical digital organizing, media strategy, and grassroots communications skills necessary to mobilize communities and push for solutions at this vital time.

The Berlin training will be the first-ever Climate Reality Leadership Corps event in Germany and only the fifth in Europe. As the continent faces significant climate impacts like rising seas, longer droughts, and intense heat waves, there are growing reasons for hope.

In Europe, increasing numbers of citizens, communities, and governments are working to leave fossil fuels behind, and despite its shortcomings, Germany is among those leading this charge. Thirty-six percent of the country's electricity was generated by renewable sources in 2017, and its Energiewende policy aims to drive a full transition to clean energy. Meanwhile, numerous European countries have committed to phasing out coal and the sale of strictly internal-combustion engine vehicles.

But Europe now finds itself at a crossroads. While the European Union was one of the engines of the Paris

Agreement, it has yet to find the will and ambition to continue its leadership. The continent is poised for a renewable revolution that creates jobs, energizes economies, and fights climate change. But only if Europeans seize the moment and force their leaders to act.

This training gives attendees the rare opportunity to learn directly from Vice President Gore how to raise awareness and inspire people everywhere to create change, just as he did in the landmark films An Inconvenient Truth and An Inconvenient Sequel: Truth to Power.

Along with the sessions led by Vice President Gore, the training offers a range of in-depth, theme-based, and practical skill-building workshops that explore the key climate challenges ahead and offer key insights from an extraordinary lineup of scientists, policymakers, and communicators.

These sessions will develop and empower a new generation of powerful citizen activists ready, willing, and able to build a climate movement to win.

AT THE BERLIN TRAINING, PARTICIPANTS WILL:

- Gain an understanding of the road ahead for the climate movement.
- Learn to become an effective activist and leader equipped with essential skills for communicating climate science, public speaking, organizing, and media engagement.
- Hear from local and regional experts on strategies for implementing practical clean energy and sustainability solutions.
- Meet in facilitated small-group sessions to connect with Climate Reality and our global network of activists.

Following the conclusion of the training, attendees become Climate Reality Leaders, joining a network of over 14,000 activists in more than 140 countries around the world.
